George Washington arrived this forenoon from Bermuda Hundred, and reports that at 2 o'clock yesterday p. m. rebel General Fitzhugh Lee, with "bout 2,000 cavalry, attacked our garrison at Wilson's Landing, on James river, and came near overpowering our forces there, though their forces there though their forces there. there, though they fought valiantly, with the aid of one gunboat. At 4 o'clock the George Washington arrived with reinforcements from Fort Powhatan, which landed immediately, and the fight continued with great severity until 7 o'clock in the evening, when the enemy were repulsed and driven back in great disorder, leaving between two and three hundred killed and wounded on the field. Our loss is the captain and mate of the Mayflower, two brothers named Robinson.

We had but one man killed on the field, and one died coming down the river. One rebal major was killed. We captured ten of the rebels, including one colonel. General Devens has nearly recovered his

FROM KENTUCKY.

Union State Convention. Louisville, May 25.—The Republican Convention met at noon at Mozart Hall. Fifty-six counties were represented, and delegates from twenty counties chosen who were not present.
Hon. G. W. Williams was appointed president, and Col. A. G. Hodges, secretary.
Among the prominent speakers were R. J.
Breckinridge, S. F. Burtem, Lucian Anderson, and Judge Williams. Mr. Breckinridge told the convention in his speech that if he were appointed a delegate he should vote for Lincoln and nobody else, and was rapturously applauded. Allusions to President Lincoln and to the prospects of universal freedom by the speakers never failed to bring down the house. Mr. Breckinridge was appointed one of the delegates at large. Two from each Congressional District were also appointed to represent the republicans of Kentucky at the Baltimore Convention. The convention passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Union men of Kentucky, in Convention passed from the convention of Kentucky, in Convention assembled, favor the preservation and maintenance of the Union, the supremacy of the Constitution, and destruction of the rebellion, without any regard to what these objects may cost. The proceedings of the convention were harmonious and enthusiastic. Democratic State Convention. LOUISVILLE, May 25 .- The Democratic Union State Convention met at 10 o'clock, at the Court House. Hon. ## CONGRESSIONAL.

IN THE SENATE evening session yesterday-Mr. Sumner offered the following resolution, which was agreed to: Resolved, That the Secretary of War be requested to furnish the Senate a copy of the preliminary report, and also of the final report of the American Freedmen's Inquiry Commission, with the accompanying documents.

The Tax bill was then resumed, and the amendments of the Senate Finance Committee were generally agreed to as the reading of the bill progressed.

In the House—
The further consideration of the Reciprocity question was, by a vote of 78 to 72, postponed until next December.
Mr. Garfield asked leave to report a bill from the Committee on Military affairs for the punishment of guerrillas, but Mr. Ancona, of Penna., objected.

Mr. Schenck.-What! object to a bill for the punishment of guerillas?

The House passed the Senate bill, providing for the payment of claims of Peruvian citizens under the convention with that republic.

Mr. Garfield again asked leave to report a bill for the summary punishment of guerillae, and again Mr. Ancona objected.

The Feeling in Bichmend.

We extract the following from a paper called mond, and which is the organ of "the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Contederate States." The date of publication is April 22d, and we call particular attention to the sentence printed in italic:

printed in italic:

"The present time in the history of the war, we do not think can well be over-estimated. It seems by common consent, both among us and our enemies, to be regarded as a crisis. Of course all may be mistaken; but it does appear as if we had reached that point in the struggle, when a great victory, one side or the other, will do much towards ending the war. If General Lee meets with disaster, and Johnston is overcome, we may reach the conclusion that longer strife on our part, is useless and vain.

"The battles may be virtually drawn battles; no such success granted to either side as that

"The battles may be virtually drawn battles; no such success granted to either side as that either will be able to accomplish anything great. This will only prolong the war; and, with the resources of the United States, must prove disadvantageous to us. Or the victory may be with the enemy, and they may be able to press us to the wall. Or the victory may be ours, and we may be able to drive the enemy in shame and confusion. Now, all and either of these contingencies depend upon God. God may give the victory to either side, or to neither, just as He pleases."

MAN IN THE "LARGEST SENSE."-Mrs. E. Cady Stanton is out it a card addressed to the callers of the Fremont Convention, asking them to have her name added to the call as she presumes they use the word "man" in its "largest sense," and therefore mean to include all the women who would like to be men, but are not.
